$355,264 Left In G.O.P. Fund After Election

Expenditure of More Than Three Million Leaves Surplus in Coffers
SHOWS LARGE DECREASE
Remaining Fund Will Cover Current Expenses for Considerable Period

Washington, D. C.—The Republican national committee emerged from the national campaign with a surplus of $355,264 after expending a total of $3,585,952, according to a statement of receipts and expenditures by Chairman William M. Butler, a detailed tabulation of which was ready for filing Monday with the clerk of the house.

Chairman Butler said it was with satisfaction that he was able to report that the committee after defraying all costs, had exceeded by no greater margin the estimate made after the Cleveland convention that "a total expenditure of three million dollars was necessary for the successful conduct of the campaign." His statement showed that expenses of $2,575,600 for senatorial and congressional committee financed independently in previous campaigns, were included in the grand total of national committee expenditures.

RETURNED TO STATES
"An additional $552,525.11 collected by the national committee in the capacity of agent for state committees, making a total of $4,359,478.82 taken in by the national body, was immediately returned to committees in the state in which it was collected," Mr. Butler said, and no part used for the national campaign.

Chairman Butler said the surplus of more than $350,000 which compared with a deficit of about $2,000,000 in currency by the committee in 1920, would support the routine activities of the committee without necessity for new collections for a substantial period.

WOMAN KILLED, 25 INJURED IN CRASH

Victims of Crash in Immigrant Car When Express Train Rams It

Chicago—An unidentified woman was killed and approximately 25 other passengers injured in a near end collision of two Pennsylvania railroad passenger trains on the south side Monday. The victims were occupants of an immigrant car on the rear of train No. 109, the forward train.

Train 109 was running late when an express train crashed into it, smashing the two rear cars of the immigrant train. The latter was due at the Union passenger terminal at 7:30 and the express was due at 7:55. The wreck occurred at Sixty-First and Princeton-ave just two blocks north of the Englewood union station on Sixty-Third-st. The immigrant train had slowed for the Sixty-First station when the fast express ploughed into it.

Ambulances from surrounding police stations were rushed to the scene and the victims removed to the Englewood and St. Bernard hospital. Among the injured was a six-year old boy said to be a son of the unidentified woman who was killed.

Except to those in the immigrant car on the rear of train No. 109, the other injured were said to have been chiefly in the next car ahead.

JOBLESS, BRIDEGROOM OF WEEK TAKES LIFE

Kenosha—Otto Becker, 30, a bridegroom of a little over a week, shot and killed himself at his home here just after 9 o'clock Monday morning. Becker was a member of one of the oldest families of the city and had been married to Miss Martha Ohlga Saturday, Nov. 22, and they had spent their honeymoon at Flint, Mich. Mrs. Becker had been employed in one of the Kenosha factories and she returned to her work Monday morning. Becker was out of work and shortly after his bride left home Monday morning he shot himself.

A doctor-in-law who was in the house at the time declared that he had appeared greatly concerned because his wife was working and he was not. The bride of a week was prostrated when told of the tragic death of her husband.

FRENCH DEBT IS FIRST SUBJECT FOR DISCUSSION

American Commission Pleased with Progress Made Toward Refunding

Washington, D. C.—Developments looking to a refunding of the war time loan to France formed chief subject for study and discussion of the American Debt commission when it convened here Monday for its first meeting in six months. Questions involved in the refunding of other war loans of the United States also were before the commission but were secondary to the French debt.

Members of the commission acquainted with the nature of recent conversations between Secretary Mellon and Ambassador Jusserand concerning the French debt, show undisguised satisfaction at the trend of developments. At some quarters it was believed that at least a starting point for the negotiation of a settlement summer after a number of talks with French government officials in Paris. The latter were reported to favor the plan as providing a fixed annual payment which they regarded as the limit of France's capacity to pay and to believe the provision permitting investment of half of the payments in French industrial securities would go far toward the rebuilding of their war devastated areas.

FORMER BASEBALL PLAYER IS SLAIN

Memphis, Tenn.—Monroe "Dolly" Stark, former major league baseball player, and one time manager of the Memphis team in the Southern association, was shot and killed here early Monday. Harry Atkins of this city is being held at the Shelby-co jail accused of the killing.

The shooting occurred at a road-house run by Stark on the outskirts of the city, and when police arrived on the scene the building was deserted except for Stark, who died before an ambulance could be summoned.

Atkins later was taken into custody. Stark whose league experiences began with Little Rock in the Southern association, played shortstop for the Brooklyn Nationals for several seasons, and also was with Toledo and Dayton teams at one time. He returned to Memphis, his birthplace, to manage the Memphis Chickasaws in 1916. Stark was married about three months ago and was 38 years of age.

Principals In Los Angeles' Latest Murder

R. E. Mack, vaudeville impresario (left), was shot and killed in his offices in Los Angeles by A. R. Southern (right), according to police. Southern's wife, Mrs. Ruth Southern (center), was employed by Mack as a stenographer. It was Southern's objection to this, detectives say, that precipitated the shooting. Southern, following the slaying, walked out of the building and surrendered to the first policeman he met.

PROGRESSIVES OF STATE PLAN UNION WITH THIRD PARTY

Committee Urges National Conference Be Made Permanent

Madison—Initial steps toward a union with a new national third political party were taken here Sunday by the executive committee of the Wisconsin Conference for Progressive political action when that body adopted resolutions urging that a national conference be made permanent and along lines similar to the convention held at Cleveland last July.

The committee also launched plans for the formation of county units throughout the state, under directions of Glenn P. Turner, Madison attorney and state secretary. More than 100 labor unions and farmer organizations have now united with the state order, Mr. Turner said.

A political school for young people will be conducted in the state next summer. It was decided. The primary aim of the school, members said, will be to prepare young voters for future political activities. Several leaders from other states will be brought to the school which likely will be held in Milwaukee or Madison. It was stated.

The committee decided to call a state convention of the conference two weeks prior to the national convention which will be held some time in January.

Milwaukee probably will be the meeting place of the state convention.

Less than a dozen members of the committee were present.

GRAIN SHIPS RUSH TO BEAT INSURANCE

Superior—Twenty boats loaded with grain left Superior-Duluth harbor Sunday in a last hour rush to move cargo before the time limit on the regular insurance rate expires.

Insurance companies discontinued the regular rate of insurance at midnight. An increased rate will be added until Dec. 8, with an extension until Dec. 12.

Sunday's shipment of grain exceeded 4,000,000 bushels and is believed to be the largest single day shipment this season, according to local grain men. Several vessels failed to get under way at midnight, due to the crowded condition of elevators.

The shooting occurred Friday afternoon when Noel went to the Heyerdahl home to serve a summons on Heyerdahl. According to Noel, who is rapidly recovering from a bullet wound in his hip, Mrs. Heyerdahl fired two shots at him, one taking effect. Before aid could be summoned, he said, the man and wife escaped in an automobile.

Pending arrangements to fix bail the pair will be held in county jail here awaiting the preliminary hearing on Dec. 10.

SUSPECT KORTEZ BOOTY HIDDEN IN NEW YORK BANKS

Alleged Swindler Assigns Properties All Over World to Financier

New York—Cash and negotiable securities to an amount ranging between $500,000 and $750,000, possessed by Leo Korte, who is wanted in Chicago in connection with alleged stock swindles totalling approximately $2,000,000, are secreted in various New York banks, in the opinion of Alphonse F. Spiegel and representatives of the Chicago Title and Trust Co.

Spiegel, who is here representing claimants against the alleged swindler, said that Korte, before leaving for Chicago Sunday gave him a signed legal instrument assigning to him all his properties found anywhere in the world, surrendered about $1,000,000, and revealed the details of his financial operations in this city after his disappearance from Chicago.

Spiegel also declared that Korte and George F. Christian, alleged co-swindler of $2,050,000 from the bankrupt stock firm of Ray and Houghton in which he was a partner, were "business" acquaintances, and possibly, partners in fraud. He said that Christian had given Korte an endorsed blank check which had been cashed for $20,000.

NATIONAL BANKS NEED BACKING OF U. S., DAWES SAYS

Annual Report of Comptroller of Currency Shows Decrease in Resources

Washington, D. C.—The claims of national banking system of the country for legislative consideration placed them on even terms with other financial institutions were laid before congress Monday in the annual report of Comptroller Dawes, of the currency.

Mr. Dawes declared that the disparity between the position of national banks and state and private banks and other financial institutions must be removed through more liberal treatment of the national institutions and by according them more privileges from the government. Only through granting them such powers as he recommended in his report, he believed, could they check a waning of their influence and strength.

The comptroller mentioned that twice in the history of this government the national banks had proved the vehicle for the nation's wartime fiscal operations, and that in each case their operations were larger than anything about which the world had known prior to their successful conclusion. In the Civil war, he added, no other government instrumentality rendered a more effective service.

Mr. Dawes cited records showing that 40 years ago the national banks had 75 per cent of the total banking resources of the country while their combined force today represents only 47 per cent of the total. Since 1915, he added, 206 national banks, each with a capital of $100,000 or over, have surrendered their national charters to re-enter business under state laws and they carried with them total assets of more than two and a quarter billion dollars.

Resources of the national banks Oct. 10, last, he said, were $23,223,061,000, a sum substantially greater than at any time in the last four years, but their growth has not kept pace with that of institutions operating under state laws.

ARMY IS SHORT OF FUNDS, WEEKS SAYS

Washington, D. C.—Secretary Weeks advised President Coolidge in his annual report made public Monday that conditions in the United States army now have reached the stage when "a sound and continuing policy with regard to its necessities must be seriously considered by the legislative department of our government."

In this connection the war secretary declared the army's requirements had been studied with care and fitted into a ten-year program which should be put into effect by congress in a manner that will conform not only to the military needs of the military service but also to the financial condition of the government.

In another section of the report the statement was made that "the pressure for necessary progress and improvement is even greater" than the "pressure for economy." The secretary recited by detail the vastness of the military program and the few years in which it would be necessary to keep within appropriations made by congress, and added:

"With the funds allowed during the past fiscal year, however, it has not been possible either to carry out the maintenance of the defense forces or to practice true economy."

ousting of Bob From G. O. P. May Upset Parties

Leaders of Old Guard Who Disagreed Now Are in Accord With Step

STARTS POLITICAL FIGHT
LaFollette Insurgents Probably Plan Measures of Reprisal, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1924 by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—Political history has just been made by the group of 32 Republican senators who adopted a resolution endeavoring to "read out of the party" the four Republican senators who did not support President Coolidge in the last election.

Although there are many "old guard" leaders who doubted the wisdom of the step when first proposed and who would have preferred to let well enough alone, now that the action has been taken the men who attended the conference are a unit in declaring they will vote to admit Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, Senators Ladd and Frazier of North Dakota and Senator Brookhart of Iowa to any future party conferences or to fill any vacancies that may occur in committee chairmanships.

"The most important question that has arisen is: 'What shall the Democrats do about it?'"

Senators Smoot and others who have been talking informally with Democratic senators say that the latter are tired of combining with the LaFollette group. In the last election the LaFollette movement split the Democratic party and ruined what chance the Democrats had in at least eight states where Mr. Coolidge was a plurality choice. Also the LaFollette campaign diverted attention from the campaign of John W. Davis and drove thousands of conservative Democrats into the Republican camp. Under such circumstances little love is lost between the Democrats and the insurgent Republicans.

Politics, however, makes strange bedfellows. An expediency is a stronger influence than logic. The Democrats need the strength of the LaFollette voters to build up their own party. The Republican party is avowedly conservative. The Democrats have a conservative wing, too, which will resist any alliance with the LaFollette group, yet in the last session of congress the Democratic conservatives voted time and again with the LaFollette senators for party reasons. The same may be expected to happen again. A minority usually does all it can to embarrass a majority.

Out of it may emerge a new Democratic party which slowly places its conservative constituents in the minority. Much as the Democratic conservatives may dislike the radicals, they may turn from the Republican primary and enter Democratic contests. The purpose of the LaFollette group heretofore has been to reform the Republican party from within. The action of the Republican conference of senators indicates that so far as the upper house of congress is concerned there is no intention of doing this. Now the radicals can take up the task of the Democratic party itself.

The Democratic party itself, their ideas of government. The Republican conservatives will not be disturbed by that as they have wanted for some time to see radicals and conservatives classified in two parties. Will the solid south which has upon many occasions sent conservative Democrats to the senate who differ only in name from conservative Republicans permit the Democratic party to become the liberal or radical party?

The last election has left the leaders of the Democratic party demoralized. The Republican senatorial conference tosses the LaFollette Republicans into the arms of the Democrats and challenges them to take the radicals into their bosom and make the fight between radicalism and conservatism.

Unless the LaFollette Republicans fight back in the coming session, congress the action of the Republican conference has no immediate effect on the organization of congress remains the same and there will be no rearrangement of committees till the new congress meets in December 1925, or in extra session after March 4. But the action is not a gesture. Its the beginning of a real political battle which may re-shape the two major parties or mean the beginning of a permanent organization of the independents inside and outside of congress.

BLAME CHICAGO CRIME WAVE IN SLEUTH'S DEATH

Banker Shoots Into Police Car in Fear of Robbers and Kills One

Chicago — The series of recent murders, the sudden increase in robberies and a number of kidnappings in which women were abducted and attacked, was blamed Sunday for the death Saturday night of one detective the serious wounding of two others and the death Sunday of a laborer in an elevated station.

Hugh Stewart, bank cashier, Saturday night fired into a police car in front of his home, after the car had followed him and his wife home from a party.

Detective William Perrin was killed. Detectives David Vanhooven and Frank Warburton were wounded. Stewart told the police he thought the police car contained robbers.

The banker said recent robberies and women kidnapping caused him "to take no chances" by shooting first and asking questions afterwards.

Stewart was held pending further investigation.

Charles Hendricks, a laborer, was shot and killed at an elevated station Sunday by Luke Reason, station agent, who told police he thought Hendricks was a robber. "I found him in the station cage with money in his hand," Reason declared. Police said Reason and been drinking.

George Smith, Negro, was arrested Sunday night soon after he was alleged to have attacked three white women on the south side. The women identified him, police said.

All of these senators are chairmen of the more important of the senate committees including finance, military, naval, commerce, appropriations, banking and postoffice.

Lawmakers Will Mark Time Until President Coolidge Delivers Message

SESSION WILL BE SHORT
Republican Senate Organization Has New Chief in Senator Curtis

Washington, D. C.—After a six months' rest, the sixty eighth congress reassembled Monday to renew its last and short session the turmoil and strife which characterized its first and prolonged gathering.

Only brief meetings by each house were arranged for Monday, with the program fixed in this fashion:

"Prayer, rollcalls to develop quorums, swearing in of new members, appointment of committees to notify the president that congress is ready to receive communications from him, presentation and adoption of resolutions on the death of members in the house, adjournment out of respect to dead members."

There will be a further marking of time Tuesday pending receipt of President Coolidge's annual message which will be read in each house separately. Thursday the real work of the session will begin, but how much can or will be accomplished before adjournment after a adjournment on March 4 remains a big question.

Chief attention will be given to the annual appropriation bills. Much general legislation is pending and there is going to be strong pressure for consideration of a number of measures on which there is wide difference of opinion among the membership.

After the usual preliminaries of a new session have been disposed of in the first half of this week, the house will go to work on the appropriation bills, taking up first that for the interior department.

Meantime the Republican steering committee of the senate will meet to map out a program for immediate action on the most important subjects, but since the president has appointed a commission which is engaging in a study of this whole field, it is likely that a decision as to the form this legislation is to take will await the report of that commission.

CHANGE COMMITTEES

With Henry Ford out of the field and several new bids in hand, the Muscle Shoals question very likely will be sent back to the senate agriculture committee for further consideration.

Although this is a holdover congress, a number of new faces will be seen on the floors of the two houses, and there will be important changes in the senate committee structure. Especially in the senate, new members in the senate include William M. Butler of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee appointed to succeed the late Senator Lodge; Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island; and Rice W. Means, Republican, who succeeds Alva B. Adams of Colorado. Democrats have been elected on Nov. 4, to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Nicholson.

Senator Adams was appointed to the vacancy and served through the last session.

New senate committee chairmen will include William E. Borah at the head of the foreign relations committee in place of the late Senator Lodge and Senator Cummins of Iowa, as head of the judiciary committee, or which the late Senator Brandegee of Connecticut was the chairman.

The Republican organization in the senate has a new head in Senator Curtis of Kansas, former party "chump," who succeeds Senator Lodge. Senator Watson of Indiana is the new "silent leader" in place of Senator Curtis. There also will be a new party "whip." His selection has been left to Senator Curtis.

KIMBERLY SCOUTS ON FIRST OUTING

Trinity Lutheran Troop Also Makes Jaunt—Cabin Is Offered for Hikers

Two boy scout outings among troops of Valley council, Boy Scouts of America, took place over the week-end and several committee meetings are planned.

Eighteen members of Kimberly troop, accompanied by the Rev. C. Raymaker, scoutmaster, and P. O. Keicher, valley scout executive, boarded Hay Fever, the scout truck, Friday morning to go to Lake Winnebago for the day. Hay Fever was fussy, however, and the day so blustery that the destination was changed to Kaukauna, where the boy scout cabin of that city was used for preparation of meals and scout drill and games.

MASONS CELEBRATE AS THEY DEDICATE SPLENDID TEMPLE

Congratulations Pour in to Appleton Lodge on Its Achievement

Waverly lodge of the Masonic order had the most momentous day in its history Saturday, when its new temple was dedicated with ceremonies and festivities that were attended by approximately 1,000 persons. The lodge and affiliated orders now take up their regular routine in the handsome new quarters.

More than 500 Masons were seated in the main lodgeroom when the Wisconsin grand officers dedicated the building in the afternoon. Several hundred women were listening to a program at the same time in the social hall. These events were followed by the banquet, at which 775 were served in two sittings, and the dedication ball.

Almost every Masonic lodge in cities within 50 miles of Appleton was represented by delegations in response to invitations sent all over the state. Many Waverly lodge members living in other places came here to share in the festivities. Among these were Dr. John Paville of Lake Mills, Fred N. Wilcox, Madison, chairman of the state industrial commission, and many others. Wives of most of the Masons were present, as well as a member of the Eastern Star, DeMolay and White Shrine and their friends.

Frank Johnson of Black River Falls grand master of Wisconsin presided at the dedicatory services. He was assisted by other grand lodge officers present who were: Fred Marien, Milwaukee, deputy grand master; C. E. Shaffer, Madison, senior grand warden; Fred Wright, Milwaukee, junior grand warden; John E. East, Milwaukee, grand secretary; Frank E. Noyes, Marinette, senior grand deacon; D. H. Money, Oconto, junior grand deacon; Soren Semdahl, Black River Falls, grand pursuivant; Frank J. Moyer, Milwaukee, grand marshal. Members of Waverly lodge who substituted for other grand officers unable to be present were: George S. Sweetman, grand treasurer; A. H. Wickesberg, grand sword bearer; Henry W. Tuttrup and Olin H. Mend, grand stewards; George R. Wettengel, grand gyle; Dr. J. A. Holmes, grand chaplain; Herman Wildhagen, grand architect.

Musical portions of the ritual were sung by a sextet consisting of Leslie Buchman, George Nixon, Charles C. Baker, Dr. Earl L. Baker, R. J. Hackworthy and Vance Edwards. The grand officers committed the temple to Masonic usage and then retired. A program was taken up which commenced with a violin solo by Percy Fullawider.

LODGE CONGRATULATED

G. E. Buchanan, worshipful master of Waverly lodge and chairman of the building committee, gave a talk in which he related the history of the movement to build the temple, described the work of the building committee and voiced appreciation for the help given him by those associated with him in the project and by the lodge as a whole. He said that congratulatory messages had come to the Appleton friends who are away and from other Masonic fraternalities. He read one from the west coast, one from New York and one from Michigan as indicative of the praise which was bestowed upon the lodge in opening its new temple.

Congratulations of the worshipful masters of other Wisconsin lodges were conveyed by Lee F. Blood of Roosevelt lodge, Green Bay. He declared that the effort of the Masons was not so much to build a temple for themselves as to provide one for the younger generation now about to come into the membership.

Fred M. Wilcox of Madison, formerly of Appleton, spoke in the absence of William F. Walker of Chippewa Falls, who was unable to attend. Mr. Wilcox is a past master of Waverly lodge and described the earlier days when he was active in the order here. Dr. William T. Dorward of Milwaukee, closed the program with his

PLAN MEMORIAL FOR MISS SMITH

Approximately 1,800 alumni of Lawrence college and more than that number of former students who knew the late Zella Anne Smith, either as librarian or student at Lawrence college, are being approached by a committee of the alumni association in behalf of a memorial for her. Col. Frank Schneller, Neenah, is chairman.

Through the efforts of Anders P. Anderson, newly appointed alumni secretary, the campaign for the Smith memorial will be handled by various captains in all parts of the United States.

It is planned to have a painting of the late librarian as part of the memorial. It will be hung in the library where she was librarian from the time of her graduation from Lawrence in 1888 until her sudden death May 1.

address. The Master Key. It was an inspiration talk filled with Scotch wit and humor to illustrate his points. Among the essentials to the holding of the master key of life, he said, were tact, system, thrift, power, character, humor, initiative and friendship.

PROGRAM FOR WOMEN

The women's program was held on the floor below in the social hall but the denoting qualities of the building were so effective that one group could not hear a sound from the other. Among the numbers were piano solos by Katherine Russell vocal selection by Mrs. Oscar Adler, violin solo by Wenzel Albrecht, piano solo by Miss Dorothy Murphy, vocal numbers by Mrs. Marie Boehm and a duet by Mrs. Boehm and Mrs. Adler with violin obligate by Miss Harriet Melnich. Readings were given by Mrs. John Engel and Miss Babette Marshall. Festivities closed with the ball in the social hall, with music by Behnken orchestra. There were so many dancers the room hardly would accommodate them although it is one of the largest in the city. Many of the visitors remained for this part of the program.

Christmas seals that are sold each year to aid the fight against tuberculosis have been received and will be placed on sale in a short time, according to information received from Mrs. J. P. Frank, who has charge of the sale of seals in Appleton.

A new method of selling seals has been introduced this year. Instead of the Appleton Women's club members distributing them, the seals will be mailed at the end of next week to homes. If the persons receiving them do not wish to sell or buy them, or if they cannot dispose of them, they may be returned.

It is felt that more people can be reached through the mails than through agents. It is hoped that by this method the goal for Appleton, which is $2,500, may be attained.

William Ross, a former Appleton man, is head of the distribution for the state. All directions, seals and methods of approach are sent directly from Washington D. C. and are not plans of Appleton people.

The money received from the sale of seals is used to build open air camps in the country for those stricken with tuberculosis, proper food and care and to assist in preventing the disease.

Madison—Motor vehicle owners are likely to find their license fees for 1925 somewhat higher than for 1924, Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman declared in announcing that a new rate book based on road weight of all motor vehicles has been prepared and will be the basis of the 1925 fees.

During the present year the shipping weight of most automobiles was the only basis available for fixing the fees, Mr. Zimmerman said. With the completion of the road weights for practically every type of car, this scale will be followed as directed by the state law, it is announced.

The difference in the weight of vehicles caused by batteries, gas, oil, water and accessories in many cases is sufficient to make a difference of $1 or $2 in the fee, officials say.

MR. LODGE'S SUCCESSOR
Through the appointment by Gov. Cox of Massachusetts of Mr. William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National committee, as the successor to the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, the Coolidge administration should have satisfactory representation in the upper branch of congress. Mr. Butler is experienced in business and politics, and he is the kind of politician who represents business in public affairs and the kind of business man who represents politics in commerce. He has taken an active interest in the problems of the cotton manufacturing industry and of public utilities and railroads. He was a member of the Massachusetts house and senate, serving as president of the latter body.

The pleasure which President Coolidge manifests over the selection may have more than passing significance. Mr. Butler worked in the campaign in thorough accord with the president, and it is fair to assume that they fully understand each other in political questions. Mr. Butler doubtless will be the personal spokesman for the president in congress, though it is doubtful if the senate, with its strict conventions, will be quick to recognize a new member as the Republican floor leader.

The Coolidge administration retains power "in its own right" under the most favorable conditions. It should be able to carry out its policy to the fullest extent. While partisan opposition in government is good for the public, it must be conceded that whatever administration is chosen at any time to run the nation's business should have authority to realize its plans. If it does not have this power, its responsibilities cannot be fairly discharged. The Coolidge administration goes into office under the most favorable circumstances. The obstructionists seem to be helpless. All branches of the government appear to be in sympathetic accord, and the government should be able to exert its will with general cooperation.

TOO MANY STORES
It takes 1,000 people to support one meat market. This fact is established by an investigation of the Department of agriculture. The conclusion, with the observations leading up to it, should be of interest to every merchant, actual or prospective. It takes account of what is overlooked by too many persons ambitious to start up in business—the population they may expect to draw from.

The federal inquiries give as a typical case a town of 1,000 inhabitants in Wisconsin. There was one meat store there, which was successful. Another meat dealer reasoned that if the operating dealer operating there could prosper, so could he. He opened a shop in competition. Result: The first store immediately began losing money; and the second, though it was pretty well patronized, never began to make money. There was simply not enough patronage for both. One dealer ruined the other, and himself, too.

The same ratio of meat stores to population holds true in larger cities, says the observers. They found a city in another state where there was one meat store to every 835 people, and three fourths of them losing money. In a neighboring city there was one store to every 1,123 people, and nine out of ten were successful. There should be similar figures available for groceries, drug stores, shoe stores, etc. If they were known and looked, a large number of business failures could be avoided. It is a country where a man in the absence of more exact data on the subject, every merchant, in any line, owes it to himself, his competitors and the community to make a careful canvass of the available population before opening a new store. Business failures are always a drag on the community, and one successful store is better than two failures.

CROSSWORD VOCABULARY
According to Mr. David Allen Anderson, professor of psychology in Pennsylvania State College, "solving crossword puzzles has no educational value." He may be right. Yet, it is just as educational, at least, as playing bridge, tennis, or seeing the average motion picture.

Students, as we may call them, of crossword puzzles, pick up words that they have not heard before. Learn synonyms, and acquire some understanding of the meaning and distinctions of words. Whether this is educational we are not prepared to say. Nevertheless, it enlarges the vocabulary and trains people in the definition of words.

Solving these puzzles is interesting play. It certainly does no harm. Incidentally, it cannot fail to stimulate the mind.

HOLIDAY BUSINESS
Retail stores in cities and towns are doing large business, and the outlook is that the holiday trade this year will make a new record. In fact, there is every indication that trade will continue good for a long time to come, with of course seasonal fluctuations.

Conditions have been sound right along. They are strengthened by the improvement in Europe and by conservatism in the United States and Great Britain. Agriculture is better off than it has been for several years. The prospects for prolonged good business are excellent.

WHITE COLLARS AND OVERALLS
Overalls may not be indicative of coarseness. Neither is the white collar a cordon of culture. As far as occupation goes, or social standing, or financial means, or ability, or education, the dress does not mark the man. The man in overalls may be more important than the one who sports a white collar.

"Labor with the hands is no longer looked down upon," says Mr. Lewis Gustafson, superintendent of the David Rankin Jr. School of Mechanical Trades. "Manual training has become a part of the general education, has become definitely and avowedly cultural, serving a useful purpose with honor and distinction."

The mechanic of today is a skilled workman, well paid. The engineer is thoroughly educated and is an authority in his specialty. The practical men who wear overalls, or do more or less manual labor, have incomes above the average and rise to executive positions. They are trained to think.

The white collar man may wear the white collar because it is part of his occupational uniform. Economically, he may belong in the category of "common labor." He may wear the white collar because he has neither education nor ability, and, if so, his pay is small, his opportunities are limited.

Men are choosing lines of work, nowadays, in which they can make money. Many wear overalls in the shop, but don the dress suit in the evening. Work that is interesting and remunerative is agreeable, and they don't mind whether they wear coarse or fine clothes while doing it.

SCALES.
WHAT a funny little story to the world at large would leak: what an interesting secret it would be, if the scale we all are weighed on had the power to up and speak and tell just what it said to you and me.
Every day a gutters' penman from the people who would know whether they have gained or lost a pound or two. Poles walk up and drop the coin, wait a minute, then they go. It's a little thing we all are wont to do.
Someone knows they're rather hefty, so they diet for a while. Then they're anxious just to see what luck they've got. They are slinking at the scales, so to be in proper style, so they up and drop a penny in the slot.
Someone else is rather skinny so they eat and sleep a lot as they watch the indicator swing around. When it shows they still are thin, they will claim it's a conspiracy and they'll look until another scale is found.
It's a cinch, when folks are weighing, that someone knows their weighing and expressions come—there's either strong or weak. So I say, and not in jesting, I would be rather interesting what the scale could tell if only it could speak.

HEMORRHOIDS.
Cancer is one of the conditions which are too frequently mistaken for and mislabeled as "piles." In fact, experience has shown that about one-third of all cases purporting to be hemorrhoids (piles) are not at all what they purport to be. Usually it is the sufferer's own mistake; sometimes a physician is accessory, since some physicians are easy going and perfectly willing to accept the patient's ready made diagnosis without a previous examination. Nine cases out of ten of so-called "itching piles" are not piles at all. It is not a health question but an individual medical problem to learn what the trouble is if not piles. The individual who assumes that pain or other discomforts is due to hemorrhoids and embarks upon an expedition of self treatment or "trying" the endless array of "cures" is just a plain everyday fool, as he learns eventually if he is not too deeply submerged in credulity.

There are many quacks in the country who pretend they can cure piles without surgery. These quacks perhaps treat the cases of hemorrhoids and other conditions surgically than all of the reputable physicians or surgeons do, such is the fondness of the public for being humbugged. The catch phrase "without the knife" pleases the simple fool who has run the gamut of self treatment and "guaranteed" remedies. As a matter of fact the ordinary operation for the radical cure of piles does not involve the use of a knife.

A hemorrhoid (or pile) is a varicosity (varicose vein) of the hemorrhoidal vein in the wall of the rectum. Once in a while varicose veins seem to undergo a spontaneous restoration to normal. But when this happens there is no certainly no specific remedy or treatment which can be given the credit. No intelligent person would claim to have a "cure" for varicose vein in any situation. Nobody really has a cure for piles. Surgery offers the only permanent relief—the destruction or removal of the pile of piles.

Persons subject to "attacks" of hemorrhoids at intervals, with periods of comparative or perhaps complete comfort between the attacks, sometimes fall into the error of ascribing the interval comfort to "cure" by some nostrum or other. Their testimonials are as ridiculous as the general run of testimonials to the "curative" effects of nostrums. The recurrence of the trouble is only a matter of time. The "cure" has as much to do with the interval of comfort as such props have with the prevention of baldness.

Why are piles? Why are varicosities in any situation? Fundamentally, the hemorrhoidal plexus or network of veins seems ill adapted for bearing the weight of the considerable column of blood which these veins, without valves, have to support in the upright posture. The hemorrhoidal veins drain directly into the portal veins (the region of the liver) and neither have the portal veins any valves to help support the blood column, so that any congestion of the liver is likely to involve a similar state in the hemorrhoidal veins. This is the evolutionary cause of piles; in the horizontal posture these veins required no valves and carried no load. The horizontal posture is a mighty good thing to revert to even now, if one is subject to piles or other varicosities.

Answer.—One ounce of alcohol when burned yields about 217 calories.
Surest Test for Tuberculosis.
Can you tell me where I can get a sure test for tuberculosis? (M. T.)
Answer.—The examination by a physician, or repeated examinations, would be the surest test. The findings of the physician may be confirmed by the electro-bacteriological spectrum examination, tuberculin test or roentgenograph.

WHEN COLE WAS KING
Old King Cole was a merry old soul, And his wife was a life of cheer; For he never paid fines for ignoring the signs, That read, "No parking here."

As long as Old King Cole kept parking near his wife, he was not parking in forbidden territory.

We wonder if Mrs. Cole never had occasion to post up "No Sparking Signs" to guide an erring husband.

Well, there's many a Cole that's been parked on Appleton streets and yet has never been introduced to the municipal judge.

We have Arterial Highway, No Parking, No Left Turn and other signs. All we need to do now is teach the traveling public the sign language so they can read them.

The kids may gush over their nursery rhymes all they please, but the only Cole father ever heard about is not a king at all, but a queen. Her name is Pocahontas.

Auto Takes Awful Toll Each Year

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Washington, D. C.—A total of 22,600 persons was killed and 678,000 injured in traffic accidents—mostly automobile accidents—in the United States last year, according to the annual report of the secretary of commerce. In that section of the report discussing the elimination of national waste Secretary Hoover says that "the most challenging of all wastes is the waste of human life," and adds: "There is no more conspicuous example of that wastage in our modern American life than in the mounting curve of traffic accidents."

The department of commerce has been waging a campaign against waste for three years and traffic accidents constitute the latest phase of the problem it has taken up. With the idea of bringing about a better public understanding of the situation, and if possible finding a remedy for it, Secretary Hoover requested police officials, highway and motor vehicle commissioners, chambers of commerce automobile associations and manufacturers, safety-first associations, engineering associations, insurance carriers and labor organizations to join in the formation of a number of committees to investigate the whole subject.

"We have the highest ingenuity and efficiency in the operation of our industry and commerce of any nation in the world," says Secretary Hoover. "Yet our economic machine is far from perfect. Wastes are legion."

"There are wastes which arise from wide-spread unemployment during depressions, and from speculation and over-production in booms; wastes attributed to labor turn-over and the stress of labor conflicts; wastes due to intermittent and seasonal production, as in the coal and construction industries; vast wastes from strictures in commerce due to inadequate transportation, such as the lack of sufficient terminals; wastes caused by excessive variations in products; wastes in materials, arising from lack of efficient processes; wastes by fire, and wastes of human life."

"Against these and other wastes the department, acting always in co-operation with the industries, has for the past three years developed an increasingly definite program. As these manifold activities of the department are based upon cooperation with industry and commerce, none of them leads to paternalistic ends."

Pointing out that the American standard of living is the product of high wages and low prices to consumers, Mr. Hoover says that the road to national progress lies in increasing real wages through proportionately lower prices, and that the one and only way to accomplish this is to improve methods and processes and to eliminate waste. Regulation and laws are of but minor effect on these things, he says, but by well-directed economic forces, by cooperation in the community, we can not only maintain American standards of living—we can raise them.

MATT SCHMIDT & SON
TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

Adventures In The Library
By ARNOLD MULDER

CONAN DOYLE ON "SHERLOCK HOLMES"
Conan Doyle made the statement in print a short time ago that he wished to goodness he had never created "Sherlock Holmes," that he wished people would forget about the famous detective and turn to those of his books that he felt really counted—such books as "The Adventures of Girdard" and "The White Company."

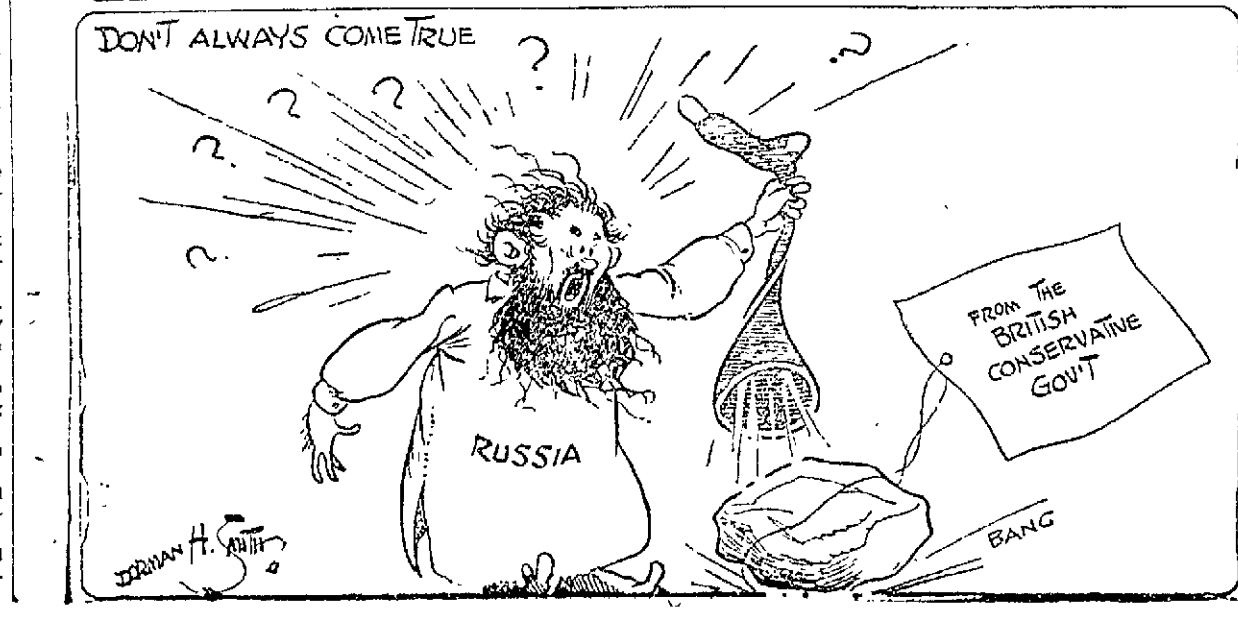

Perhaps, if this pronouncement by Conan Doyle becomes widely enough known, there will be a rush of "Sherlock Holmes" fans to those earlier books of Doyle's, written years before Sherlock Holmes was thought of. If that happens it will be all to the good, because Conan Doyle seems to me to be a very disconcerting critic of his own work. I have never been able to see that the Sherlock Holmes stories were worth all the good white paper and good black ink (that were needed to print them by the carload).

SOME WERE GOOD
Three or four or perhaps half a dozen of the stories were well enough. They had cleverness and there was freshness about them and swiftness of narration, and even though they derived from Edgar Allan Poe they were well enough done and worth some attention. But after the first half dozen or so the stories were for the most part machine made. Sherlock Holmes was everlastingly lounging in his rooms in a dressing gown looking wise and smoking a pipe strong enough to kill a mule; or else he was deeply immersed in the music at a concert, or he was engrossed in experiments in chemistry in his little private laboratory; or he was asking his friend Watson foolish questions that are found on the last page to have been sensible questions after all.

Now all of this is well enough for a few stories or even for a volume or two of them. But over and over again in stories that are counted not by tens or twenties but by hundreds the same character goes through the same motions, and the same stories are told with only a slightly different twist here and there. No wonder the creator of Sherlock Holmes became so sick of him that once he threw him over a cliff to kill him off. He wanted to write books like "The Adventures of Girdard," the kind of books he was interested in. But they public wouldn't let him. They clamored for more Sherlock Holmes stories written according to the well known and hackneyed formula, and Doyle was forced by the clamor to raise the detective from the dead, as it were, and to patch his body together again at the foot of the cliff.

HOW ABOUT SPIRITUALISM?
It would be interesting to try to figure out according to the principles of psycho-analysis how much Sherlock Holmes has had to do with Doyle's conversion to spiritualism. Did he turn to spook chasing because he was thwarted in his artistic aspirations, in the same way in which the psycho-analysis claim that thwarted sex impulses lead another man to become a censor of the arts? If there had been no Sherlock Holmes, would Conan Doyle have gone on doing in the vein in which he began in the books that he himself thinks, on his own confession, are his worthwhile books?
And such an investigation, if it could be made, would have a much wider significance than the determination of the mysteries of the mind of Conan Doyle. For Conan Doyle's experience is much more general than is usually supposed. The writer may claim that he is captain of his soul and master of his fate and the public may assume that a writer produces what he wants to produce. Conan Doyle's confession is proof that this is not by any means always true, and it is quite certain that many writers are in the same case as Doyle.
The public is a tyrant, all the more of a tyrant because it is unconscious of it. It often forces a writer to give it stuff that the writer knows to be less good than he is capable of. If he refuses to do this, he pays the penalty in starvation. If he yields, as he usually does, he is a slave to the public for good. He has money and honor but he has sold himself and in the end he bemoans his hard fate, as Conan Doyle now does.

The Question Box

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent, Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Give your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)
Q. I am going on a long trip and wish to carry a revolver. Where do I get a permit? M. M. G.
A. The National Rifle Association says there are no Federal permits issued which will permit one to carry a revolver which are good anywhere in the United States. This matter is governed by local statutes, laws, and the licenses are ordinarily issued either by municipalities or counties. Most statutory laws permit a person when traveling to carry a weapon. Application must be made to each individual jurisdiction where one desires to carry a revolver.
Q. How does the lifting power of helium compare with that of hydrogen? F. E. G.
A. The Bureau of Standards says helium will lift 0.066 lbs. per cubic foot under ordinary conditions. Hydrogen will lift 0.071 lbs. per cubic foot. Air and gas are at the same pressure, reduction of pressure causes a proportional reduction of lift. Increase of pressure on the gas decreases the lift.
Q. Where were cigarettes first used? A. M. B.
A. The earliest reference to the cigarette occurs in literature in 1842 and 1843, where it is stated that cigarettes were smoked in France and Italy. Lawrence Dillman is generally credited with the introduction of the cigarette to English society. It did not become popular, however, until 1870.

H.S. Ticket Sale Race Has Begun

Freshmen and Sophomores Vie in Boosting Attendance at Opera

The ticket selling contest between freshmen and sophomores of Appleton high school, who are working against each other to win the shield offered by M. Spector to the class that sells the most tickets for "The Nautical Knot," was opened Monday morning when seats were placed on sale. The opera is to be given Friday night in Lawrence Memorial chapel by the combined glee clubs and the orchestra of Appleton high school.

The shield is to be a traveling award. It gives the two under classes an opportunity to compete with each other without being handicapped by racing against older and more experienced students.

The opera is a light, tuneful tale of the sea and contains a number of dances directed by Miss Marie McCloskey. Miss Ruth McKennan, head of the dramatic department of the high school, is directing the dramatic part of the production, while Carl McCoe, who is in charge of the glee clubs and orchestra, is directing the musical numbers.

There will be a chorus of 150 voices, a cast of 18 persons and an orchestra of about 15 pieces. High school students are taking an important part in producing the opera, for an effort has been made to give the students an opportunity to help with every phase of the work. Some of the girls are designing their own costumes for some numbers, while the home economics department has made many of the costumes.

300 Women Hear Music, Reading At Dedication

Miss Babette Marshall, who is in Appleton for only a short time, gave a reading, and Mrs. John Engel also read. Wenzel Albrecht played a violin solo, and Harriet Melhorn gave violin obligatos to several songs by Mrs. Boehm and Mrs. Adler.

Clavilux—Don't miss it!

Clavilux Makes Rainbow Look Like Back Number

Clavilux, this marvelous new thing which will be played at Lawrence Memorial Chapel on the evening of Dec. 10 by the inventor, Thomas Wilfred, is defined by him as a new instrument by means of which silent compositions of moving color and form are played in rhythm to the vision just as music is played for the ear.

Mr. Wilfred will use his new model E-5 Clavilux, completed during the past summer at the Clavilux laboratories. This new five-manual instrument has made possible even more gorgeous abstract compositions, and, through its new projection principles, it has made practical the playing of compositions on a portable instrument that were hitherto only playable on the large permanently-installed Clavilux.

Externally the instrument is a large oblong steel box with several apertures at which focus on a single screen. It is played by means of a keyboard not unlike the console of an organ. At the mouth of each aperture is a series of delicately graduated color-slides; careful manipulation of these produces the most subtle and enchanting color graduations.

Behind the slides lies the secret mechanism perfected during countless heartbreaking failures. Only a very few have been permitted to peep into these mysterious chambers and they are not at liberty to tell what lies hidden there.

Seated at Clavilux keyboard Mr. Wilfred opens a notation book and, by playing upon the keys of this wonderfully delicate, intricate and sensitive machine—releases pure white light, moulds it into form, makes the form move and change in rhythm, introduces texture, depth and finally color of absolute purity and in any intensity. The result is projected on a white screen as a silent visual composition—beauty enjoyed through the eye alone. Where music offers a constantly changing combination of melody, harmony and rhythm, this remarkable instrument offers ever-changing form, color and motion.

Sound was thus harnessed to produce music centuries ago, and man has known something of its possibilities. Electrical and optical developments of the last quarter century have given to this young art of light vastly greater possibilities because its medium is that greatest power in the universe, the source of all life.

Members of the Handcraft class have been urged to attend, as the group is to work at this time on articles for the December festival, which will be given in Elk hall Dec. 4 by the recreation department.

HEAVY SUMMER RAINS SPOILED RABBIT HUNTING

Rabbit hunting has been poor this year, according to local sportsmen. The territory near Appleton is between here and Shiocton, but few hunters obtained the limit this year. In the southern part of the state, especially between Lancaster and Watertown, where there usually are so many rabbits that an open season is declared, the hunting is just as poor. Local sportsmen say that this is due to the heavy rains which washed the rabbits out of the swamps and off the sides of hills, where they usually live, and drowned many young ones.

TO GROUND BY FIRE OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN

Summer's Crop of Hay Destroyed and Chickens Are Burned to Death

Kaukauna—Hundreds of automobiles parked with owners were attracted to the farm of Martin Ver Haven at one and one half miles northeast of this city where fire of unknown origin totally destroyed a mammoth double barn with more than 40 tons of hay and a number of chickens. The fire was discovered by members of the family shortly after the supper hour Saturday evening but the flames had gained so much headway that efforts were directed toward saving the other farm buildings.

The farm and buildings are the property of Mrs. Phillip Lavalle of Menominee, Mich. Mrs. Lavalle is said to have insurance on the buildings. The hay and chickens and green, however, was owned by Martin Ver Haven who occupies the farm. There was no insurance on the contents of the building.

All the horses and 17 cattle were rushed from the burning buildings. Only one small calf was burned to death. All the chickens, which were housed in another portion of the barn, were burned.

One section of the barn which was about 40 feet wide and 60 feet long was solidly packed with hay. The other section of the double building, 40 by 110 in size was used to store clover seed. The remainder of the long structure was used to house the live stock. A stove pipe adjacent to the barn also was destroyed.

The solidly packed hay burned fiercely, casting a vivid glow against the sky. It was that glow, plainly visible in the city, which attracted hundreds of people. Scores of automobiles visited the ruins Sunday afternoon and found the hay still burning.

VOCATION SCHOOL PUPILS SHOW BIG INTEREST IN WORK

New Method of Turning Out Products Increases Enthusiasm

Menasha—The wood working department of the vocational school located in the high school building which several years ago adopted the factory method of turning out work, is changing gradually to the individual method because of the increased interest taken by students. In making counter wagons, for instance, for which the school established a reputation, a large number of parts were made at one time and when assembled and the wagon completed members of the class could purchase them at cost. The school has just completed a lot of mechanical drawing bench stools under this method which exacts workmanship.

Under the individual method a student can make his own selection and by complying with certain rules the article is his when completed. As a result of the change a great variety of chairs, tables, davenport and other pieces of furniture are being made and the students show unrestrained enthusiasm in the work. "A NAUTICAL KNOT"

Lawrence Memorial Chapel - Friday Dec. 5th

LIGHT THEME ON NAUTICAL KNOT

BY RUTH MCKENNAN

The Nautical Knot is a comic opera filled with light, catchy airs which have that way of lingering long after the performance is over. The theme is a typical one of love and romance, which will tax the mind of the tired business man and others seeking entertainment very little.

The story concerns the sailors and villagers of Barnetapooie. Act one opens with the townspeople preparing for the departure of the Bounding Bilow on a twelve months' trip. Many of the girls of the village must say good bye to their sweethearts and they are much concerned over the fact that the sailors are quite noticeably neglecting them in their universal admiration of Julia, the Belle of the village. She turns haughtily from all of them and shows favor to Barnabas, a strolling artist, who has come to Barnetapooie in search of beauty.

Among the departing sailors is Joe Stout, first mate of the Bounding Bilow who is in love with Nance. He has been unable to find her to declare his love and enlists the services of Bill Salt, an old sea dog and gives Bill the directions that if he sees Nance to propose to her for him.

Bill picks out the first girl he sees, and supposing her to be Nance, proposes to Julia by mistake. Julia, ever proud of a new conquest, tells Bill that in a year's time she will give Joe his answer and also informs Nance of Joe's infidelity.

In the meantime, the sailors decide to kidnap Barnabas, stow him aboard the Bounding Bilow and cast him off on some desert island.

When the time of sailing arrives, the girls of the village are angry at the sailors; the sailors are grieved over Julia's neglect; Nance is grieving over Joe; and Julia is in tears over the disappearance of Barnabas. Thus ends act one.

A year elapses between Act 1 and 2 and the sailors are returning from their long voyage. There are lots of things to straighten out. Come and see how it is done.

New Junior High School Provide Separate Rooms for Musical Instruction

BY LEE C. RASEY

The music department of the Appleton High School has been developing rapidly during the past two years. Until that time the work had not been well organized and no permanent progress had been made. Two years ago in September Mr. Earl Baker was engaged to direct the music department at the high school. His organized chorus work, instrumental work, glee clubs, etc. The progress since then has been very satisfactory.

This year the work is directed by Carl McKee assisted by G. R. Behnken. There are one hundred fifty students studying in the glee clubs and advanced chorus, sixty studying in orchestra and band, and three hundred freshman people who are being instructed twice each week in music appreciation. Under such instructors as we have and have had the work is of an exceptionally high order, and is possible only because of the interest and cooperation given by the Lawrence Conservatory of Music.

Next fall another advance will be made in the development of a musical program for the schools. Up to the present no adequate provision has been made in school buildings for musical instruction. In the new junior high school buildings however a class room has been provided in each school to be equipped for work in music. The room is a small auditorium which will seat seventy-five people. It is so constructed that classes can be conducted without disturbing other people.

Within a few years Appleton may expect to have results in that field which will compare favorably with the best work being done in other cities. There is every reason why this should be true. Appleton is known as a musical center. Our schools, from the grades through the high school, are rapidly getting into line with the community development in music.

POLICE ARREST 3 BOYS TO BREAK UP CAR THEFT RING

Recover Three Stolen Cars and Take Three Youths Into Custody

Three automobile thefts in three days was the accomplishment of three boys who were taken into custody by the police on Sunday. The boys, ranging in ages from 10 to 13 years, two of them being brothers.

The cars stolen by the group are the Ford coupe of E. A. Killoran, 1188 Harris-st; a small Ford truck belonging to Julius Schneider, Greenville; a Ford coupe owned by a Pulaski man. The last mentioned car had been borrowed for the day by E. C. Elsch, of Tigerton. All vehicles have been returned to their owners.

The Killoran car, which was stolen on Friday, was driven by the boys to a point north of the city on a rural highway, off the Mackville-rd. When the vehicle was stalled in a rut near Center swamp the boys abandoned it and returned to the city.

Mr. Schneider's car was stolen on Saturday between 3 and 4 o'clock while it was parked on Appleton-st. between Washington-st. and College-ave, but was found later on Atlantic-st.

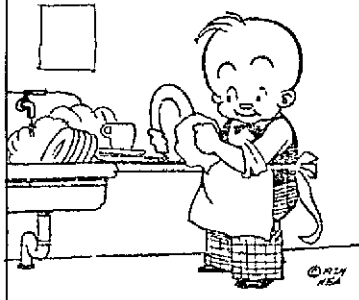

THIEVES RUN AWAY
Capture of the boys was effected through the help of George Skewes, 570 College-ave, a Lawrence college student who caught the boys in the act of stealing the Tigerton car on Morrison-st about 2:30 Sunday afternoon. As he approached the car, the boys took flight and ran away. He put the police on their trail and took the car to the police station. It belongs to E. A. Becher, Route 2, Pulaski, Wis.

The boys gave no other reason for taking the cars than that they "wanted a ride." They did not seem to realize the gravity of the offense. They were severely lectured in municipal court Monday morning and placed on parole with instructions to report every Saturday morning for an indefinite period.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, 971 Appleton-st, were married fifty years ago on Dec. 1, 1874, but there will be no formal observance of the anniversary, because of Mrs. Wilson's illness. Mrs. Eugene Harris, their youngest daughter, had planned to give a party for them and three sons, William, Harry and George, who are living in Appleton, would have been present. Three other children, Mrs. L. Weisner, Mrs. Nettie Wisley, and Mrs. John Fortinckland live in California, and could not have returned to the reunion.

clean up the city of youthful criminal gangs. Only recently they captured several boys who had been making a practice of stealing automobile accessories, motorcycles, spare tires, and other necessities were disappearing regularly from cars parked in the downtown business area until the boys were caught in the act.

Police also rounded up five boys who were guilty of stealing pigeons. They confessed to having taken pigeons several times from the coops at the Appleton Cereal Mills on College-ave and the George Walther Brewing company plant on Lawrence-st. The boys were taken before Judge A. M. Spencer in municipal court Monday morning and placed on probation.

State Officers Assist in Initiation of Record Breaking Class

About 275 candidates were initiated into Fraternal Order of Eagles at the John H. Pieder class initiation Sunday afternoon in Armory G. The candidates were escorted from Eagle hall to the Armory, and the procession was led by the Eagles file and drum corps, and the Milwaukee officers and degree team. The candidates were next in line and were followed by the visiting Eagles and local members. The line was composed of men marching in four abreast, and was two blocks long. The ladies who were guests of the lodge were at the Eagle hall during the initiatory work and a delightful program was planned for their amusement. More than 400 women listened to the vocal selections by Miss Alfred, accompanied by Miss Gohl, Dohr, and Miss Pearl Feltner, accompanied by Miss Leona Pulverbach. The file and drum corps returned to Eagle hall after the initiation to escort the ladies to the Armory where another program, in the charge of Fred Bachman, was presented. The Milwaukee degree team gave a drill, and songs and instrumental music was furnished by the Harmonic Aces, Eagle orchestra, and the in-dividuals who had given the ladies' program.

Can't Stop Joint-Ease

"You can't stop people from buying Joint-Ease for sore throat and cold in chest," writes one of our druggists' friends. "They say it's the best ever."

We know that, of course, but please remember that Joint-Ease is for stiff, swollen, painful joints, whether rheumatic or not, and its tremendous sale for that purpose proves that it is the one joint remedy that gets the most satisfying results. A tube costs 60 cents at Volgi's Drug Store and Schiltz Bros. Co., and druggists everywhere. Just rub it on and in a few seconds it disappears completely under the skin, the relief follows instantly.

Always remember, when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—quick.

TWO SMALL FIRES AT FRATERNITY HOUSE

Two fire alarms, both proceeding from the Delta Iota fraternity house at 698 Union-st, were answered by the Appleton Fire department on Sunday afternoon. Both fires were attributed to an accumulation of waste paper.

The first occurred at about noon Sunday when a basket of waste paper near the kitchen range caught fire, and ignited the woodwork. Lawrence, college students, succeeded in extinguishing the blaze, however, before the firemen arrived.

The second fire was not extinguished so easily. Paper and other rubbish in the basement caught fire, and although it caused but little damage, it filled the house with smoke.

Pardon For Slayer Will Be First Problem For Gov. Ma. Ferguson

Houston, Tex.—Governor-elect Miriam A. Ferguson will have the Montalbanos and Guido families on her hands when she assumes office in January.

What to do with Sylvester Montalbanos and his eight little Montalbanos and the half dozen little Guidos is one of the first problems "Ma" must attempt to solve.

Sylvester Montalbanos owner of a little farm near here, is under 15-year sentence for the killing of his brother-in-law, Sam Guido.

But right now he is on a 90-day furlough to get his farm in shape, so the 14 little mouths may be fed. He is working day and night—for 90 days is such a short time.

And when the 90-day period has ended, he must go back to the prison terms to work for the state, unless "Ma" Ferguson pardons him.

Montalbanos's story to the jury that convicted him was the same as the testimony of Guido's children.

Sam Guido, his children said, whipped him unmercifully. They were afraid of him. He had served a term in prison for murder. He always was threatening his children.

The night before he was killed, they had been forced to flee to their uncle's home for protection. They were picked up and shot. Montalbanos came up and shot Sam.

The jury called it "a full moon slaughter." It took no heed of the little Montalbanos and the little Guidos.

Mrs. Montalbanos worked on the farm until five months ago. Shortly thereafter little Sylvester Jr. arrived and she has not been able to resume her tasks in the fields.

The fall while Governor Pat Neff was away starting for John W. Davis, Montalbanos's attorney took the wife and the eight little Montalbanos to see Acting Governor Davidson. The ten visitors cried the clerks in the executive office cried, and the netting governor cried.

Then Davidson signed the furlough order. So Sylvester ploughs his fields with that refrain "90 days 90 days 90 days."

Governor Neff has pardoned but two men during his four years as governor.

Will "Ma" Ferguson follow his example or that of her husband former Governor James E. Ferguson who pardoned nearly 3000 Texas convicts before he was impeached?

Miss Evelyn Mundhenke who is teaching in the high school at Rockford, Ill., visited her brother, Herbert, and Kappa Delta sorority sisters over the weekend.

Miss Ruth Reeves who is teaching in Madison Central High school visited her brother George over the weekend.

TEACHER IS HURT LEAPING FROM CAR AFTER EXPLOSION

Car Driven by Miss Lolita St. Mitchell Tips Over Within Few Feet of River

Special to Post-Crescent
Maple Creek—Fears of a gasoline explosion caused Miss Lolita St. Mitchell, teacher of Maple Corners school, to break her arm in a leap from her automobile Friday evening while on her way to Leeman with two of her pupils. She was able to take up teaching again Monday morning however. The two pupils who also jumped from the machine were unhurt.

Miss St. Mitchell was taking the pupils to Leeman for a program Friday evening. Her Ford coupe had its radiator frozen up and the steam generated as a result caused it to burst just as she approached Coffee bridge town of Deer Creek. She thought the cloud of steam was smoke and feared that there had been a gasoline blast. Without taking time to stop, she opened the door and pushed the two youngsters to safety. She then jumped herself and fell, breaking her arm.

The automobile, still operating, would have plunged into Embarras river but it tipped over when within six feet of the bank. It was damaged considerably.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

California Meets Pennsylvania, Notre Dame Plays Stanford In New Years Day Contests

By Associated Press
New York—Football has entertained more than 10,000,000 persons through out the United States this fall and overflowing college coffers argue well for the game's future.

With sectional championships set to the extent possible under necessarily brief schedules, California, the five-year undefeated eleven of the Pacific coast, will meet Pennsylvania at Berkeley on New Year's day, and at the same time undefeated Notre Dame will play undefeated Stanford.

These engagements cannot, however, be considered American championships for such a title could only result from a series in which three eastern teams, as many from the mid-west, the southern champions and at least two coast eleven participated. But they will produce an interesting comparison of football as played on the nation's two coast lines.

The eastern season ended in a triple tie, Pennsylvania, Yale and Dartmouth coming through without defeat although all participated in deadlocks. Yale captured the "Big Three" honors by defeating Princeton and Harvard. Williams repeated its conquest among the "Little Three" and at the same time stopped Cornell's three-year winning streak. Holy Cross made the best record of the four large Catholic institutions, scoring victories over Fordham and Boston college while Fordham conquered Georgetown.

Illinois, favorite in the Western conference, was eliminated when Minnesota defeated the eleven led by the formidable "Red" Grange, 20 to 7, Chicago, thereby winning the title. Notre Dame, not a member of the conference, defeated three of its eleven "center" college which spurred to fame under "Uncle" Charley Moran, now at Rockwell, defeated Alabama, leader in the Southern title series.

Center college which spurred to fame under "Uncle" Charley Moran, now at Rockwell, defeated Alabama, leader in the Southern title series. However, is not a member of the conference. Florida and Washington and Lee, both rivals of Alabama, will play a deciding game Saturday.

The year has produced numerous stellar individual performers with Grange leading the honors. Cuddas of Stanford shouldered the attack which tied California, 20 to 20; Garbush of the Army kicked four field goals to beat the Navy. The feat of Kruz has served Pennsylvania and that of McBride has won for Syracuse.

The west has honor men, besides Grange, in Schutte of Minnesota, "Lefty" Carley of Chicago and by Carley and Ralph Baker of Northwestern. The performances of the Notre Dame quartet, Layden, Stuhldreher, Crowley and Miller have stood out also.

SCHLAIFER MEETS O'HARA ON DEC. 8

Mickey Walker and Jack Malone Headline Cream City A. C. Attraction

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Determined to back up his all-star fist attraction, Mickey Walker vs. Jack Malone, with a high class card, Frank Mulken, match maker of the Cream City A. C., has signed Morrie Schlaffer to battle Joe O'Hara in the semi-weigh-in of his show to be staged here Dec. 8. Schlaffer, known as the "Fighting" of Omaha, is one of the hardest in the ring. All he knows is how to fight. He keeps teasing in a go to tell, always willing to take one on the chin to get home a solid wallop. In O'Hara, Schlaffer meets an opponent worthy of his mettle. The young Irishman from Chicago is one of the most promising 150-pounders in the game, and Schlaffer will know he has been in a fight, regardless of how the bout terminates.

Mulken has not arranged his other bouts but has decided to stage a card of four scraps. He is dicker with some high class little fellows, and the card will be completed by the first of the week.

Appleton High Cagers Meet In Class Tourney

Appleton high school faculty will have a basketball team in the field when the school tournament starts Monday afternoon. The outfit will consist of Willard Cross, R. G. Grant, Julie Kevin, Clement Ketchum, and Warren Wright, all of whom have had considerable experience on cargo courts.

The class tournament is an annual affair calculated to bring out new material and will be watched closely by Coach Kevin to that end. Courtney, Prager, Hieble and several other veterans of last year's championship team will form the nucleus of the regular quintet, and a number of second stringers also plan to turn out.

PACKERS LOSE TO RACINE VETS, 7-0

Legionnaires Tie Green Bay Pro Gridders for State Title Sunday

Racine — Racine Legion football team outplayed the Green Bay Packers here Sunday afternoon to win 7 to 0, thus tying the Bays for the Badger state professional title.

Johnny Mohardt, former Notre Dame star, regarded by critics as the greatest passer of all time, was largely responsible for the victory. With Mike Romney and (Death) Hedley on the receiving ends he threw eight passes, six of which were completed for a total of 140 yards and none were intercepted. His "pitching" was high perfect, the only score of the day resulting from one of them to Romney for 25 yards in the first quarter. Racine made ten firsts down to four for the Packers. Two of the Packers downs were on forwards and two penalties, not one on straight football. Of the seven Green Bay passes only five were completed, seven grounded and five intercepted.

Twenty Five Cagers Turn Out For First Workout At Lawrence

Twelve Veterans of Last Season and Thirteen Newcomers Picked In Class Tourney Start Drill

Twenty five Lawrentians Monday afternoon were out for their first regular drill with the varsity basketball squad, including twelve veterans of last season and thirteen newcomers. The latter were chosen during the class tournament last week and several of them show great promise. The cagers will turn out three times a week henceforth, and will do all the practicing in Armory G, where all home games will be played.

The first game of the season is due two weeks after Monday and Coach A. C. Denney plans to put his squad through a stiff course of training in that time. While many of the veterans have been out for several weeks training in Alexander gymnasium, Zussman, Kotai, Heldeman, Brees, Hipke and Steensland were busy with football. This kept them in good condition but the switchover from football to basketball will require some time.

In addition to the regulars who were out for football, Collinge, Hulbert, Ashman, Grove, Koebab and Clark are back on the floor. The new aspirants who will work with the first string are Cookson, McDonald, Kummer, P. Johnson, LaBorde, Schlagenhaut, Kalfass, Menzner, Bahcall, Ott, Gault and Bent.

END OF LITTLE FIVE IN SIGHT. IS CAMPUS TALK

Beloit Outlaws Carroll Because of Disregard of Freshmen Ruling

According to football talk on the Lawrence campus, the end of the Little Five conference is in sight. The past two years have brought many squabbles in the conference and the ruling barring freshmen from conference games was the last straw, according to reports.

Beloit, a member of both the Little Five and Little Eight, sought to bring pressure to bear on Carroll college of Waukesha, which is not in the Little Five, and when Carroll refused to pay any heed to the freshman rule the Mills aggregation barred the Waukesha college from its schedule. Carroll appeared to be willing to apply the ruling in basketball, but Beloit apparently is disinclined to accept the concession.

Consequently the situation is such that only Beloit, Ripon and Lawrence, all members of the Midwest conference, survive in the Little Five, since Northwestern has no team and Carroll is barred by Beloit.

Officials of the conference will meet Dec. 12, in Milwaukee, and it is expected at that time to decide the fate of the Little Five. If the break comes confirmed, Carroll and Northwestern will be shifted to the ranks of independent colleges.

Make Your Own Christmas Presents

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS

Dolls have always been the accepted Christmas gift for little girls, but this year they are just as much in demand for big girls.

Dolls are as much the rage as cross word puzzles and if you have the knack for dressing them in an original and snappy way, you can consider that your Christmas problem is solved.

They may be just dolls, or they may have some use in the world as well. A popular fad of the moment is the wide-eyed lady who fits over the rather ugly mechanism of the useful telephone and conceals it from view. This type of covering is particularly appropriate for the boudoir or bedroom.

It may be carried out in the color of the room or it may be a delectable looking confection of blue or pink that would grace any dainty surroundings, regardless of color scheme.

As the department stores you can buy these very attractive dolls heads to be mounted and dressed as you like. Those for telephones are mounted on a wire framework that just covers the telephone.

Another popular doll is really a lamp shade and is mounted on a wire frame. Through the colorful skirt just enough light escapes to make a convenient night light. A pretty effect is obtained by using several thicknesses of different colored chiffon to give an opalescent glow.

Satin or taffeta in delicate colors makes lovely bouffant frocks for dolls and may be trimmed with lace, gold galloon or French flowers. It is interesting to copy the costume worn in some French print, or some fashion photograph, or one may select a 1924 Paris model gown.

Doll heads may also be mounted on large pin cushions or embedded in round sofa cushions designed for looks rather than utility. Bags for street or opera or evening use frequently have the bag concealed in the fluffy skirts of the doll and give no hint that they are anything more than an ornament doll carried from the wrist by a ribbon.

These dolls gifts may be made at home very easily with pieces of silk and satin one has on hand. In the shops some of them run into the hundreds of dollars, depending on the workmanship and materials used. Those who are artistic enough may make the head as well as the costume but the average person will get better results to buy the head. The imported French bisque models with wavy hair and very knowing even slightly wicked features are the most attractive.

FASHION HINTS

Brilliant blue satin bands embroidered in gold in Chinese design make attractive trimmings for a black satin gown.

Not all the new hats have high square brims. Lanvin is making a charming soft felt with a rolled brim that fits the head in much the same close manner the cloche used to.

Amber pins are used effectively in black satin or black velvet hats and are much newer than brilliant studded or pearl pins.

A very charming evening dress of white tulle has panels in the front and back composed of silver sequins and wing draperies that fall below the hemline.

A very French costume consists of a tunic of white satin over a black skirt worn under a black satin coat trimmed with brown fur.

Trimmings of silver cloth are lovely in the more elaborate three-piece costumes and for evening wraps.

Gray squirrel and white ermine are combined very effectively this year and give a very original effect.

Beaded and embroidered dresses are making a bid for popularity and they appear in very new and striking color effects.

Fur lined capes in short lengths, reminiscent of those worn by our grandmothers are being shown in Paris.

The hem of many of the new gowns are set regularly every five or six inches to a length of about six inches, giving the effect of square scallops. It gives an interesting, graceful line and is particularly good for dancing.

Puppy Love A Natural Desire Of Seventeen

BY CYNTHIA GREY

One of the most uncomfortable things in the world is to be 17.

We older folks talk a lot about "light-hearted" youth—but that's because we've forgotten a good many things about our own teens. Memory is a great faker.

As a matter of fact, 17 is the most melancholy time of life. Trifles that would be less than nothing at 20, are tragedies to 17—a home that's shabby, a suit that doesn't fit, a party invitation that didn't come.

There comes that moody and emotional liking of one young creature for another that we call "puppy love."

When your boy comes to you and says, "Mother, I'm going over to Clare's tonight. She's going to help me with my English theme," you will know that that's what is the matter with him—puppy love.

And a lot hangs upon the way you answer him—his attitude toward you men all the rest of his life perhaps. For this is the time when your boy's character is growing along with his beard.

So don't "kid" him as if love, even puppy love, were a joke. It isn't. Above all, don't take him aside and talk to him about "treating" Clare as if she were his own sister.

If he's reached his teens and doesn't know right from wrong, he never will know it. Your job was to teach him that 10 years before.

A girl at 17 is not half so helpless as the boy of the same age. She knows more about some things than he will at 20.

For one thing, she matures more quickly. And she has the well known feminine intuition that is as useful and practical as a railroad timetable.

It's intuition that tells her when a boy wants to hold her hand long before the boy knows it himself. And it's that same intuition that tells her not to let him hold it!

Just leave a well-brought-up girl and boy to themselves, and not much more harm will come to them than to two babies playing in a sand-pile.

Very often if you forbid a boy or girl to "go around with" another boy or girl, those are the very ones that lure them most.

For youth is inquiring and stubborn. It's going to know why certain people aren't so desirable as others from a parent's standpoint, if possible.

I sat having dinner in a very gay restaurant the other night. At the next table were a smart young couple and the type of boy we call the cake eater.

The girl was rouged, the boy's patent-leather hair was shiny, and when they danced they danced—extremely. I listened to their conversation. Imagine, they were talking about radior!

"Don't you ever stay up to hear the 'Kansas City Night Hawks'?" the boy was saying.

"They start too late for me," the girl answered. "Mother makes me go to bed at 10 during school term. Gosh, she makes me do it, too. I'll tell the street."

Silly, slangy, but harmless as kid derogations! So don't you worry about the very young girl and boy.

They could show their blase, dancing elders a thing or two about love that is shy and honest under a jazzy exterior—it's puppy love.

McTangle

As Jack threw the letter down in my lap he said:

"This is a nice thing for a husband to get after three years of unbounded confidence in his wife."

see that it would be almost impossible for any man not to lose confidence in his wife when he finds out that she has been keeping from him the fact that a former sweetheart of hers gave her a two hundred thousand dollar wedding present. Why, the whole thing is like a De Maupassant story.

"I didn't lose confidence in you Jack, when I found that a former sweetheart of yours had given you a child. In fact, I took that child and made it my own."

"Well, I can't very well wear a string of pearls, Leslie, even if I were as self-sacrificing as you were."

"Don't insult me, Jack. I have intended for the last few months to tell you all about them but a certain series of unfortunate episodes has come upon connection with them and I naturally dreaded to do so. However, I now thought that under the circumstances you would not understand exactly my position in the matter."

"I don't know your position, Leslie."

"All right, I'll tell you." Then, little Marquise, I commenced at the beginning and told Jack the whole story. I told him that at first I was perfectly innocent and accepted—like pearls as a gift of beads from my sister Alice who in a foolishly romantic moment with Karl Whitney had given me the jewels. I told him how Karl had been all his life collecting them for me, and that I did not know they were anything but a string of beads until that night at the restaurant when they were broken and I took them to be resting.

"I should have told you all about it then," I said to him, "but you will remember that that was the time you needed six thousand dollars and asked me to go and get it from my father. I did not want my family to know you had been gambling in stocks, and naturally I did not want to ask my father for that much money, particularly as he was very ill at the time I took the easiest way, Jack—I sold three of the pearls."

"I couldn't tell you this, because I knew you would be perfectly furious. However, I thought after you had given me the money to pay back the loan which you thought you owed my father, I would tell you all about it."

"In the meantime one of the waiters had picked up that missing pearl and tried to blackmail me for it. Ruth Ellington, whom I told about it, advised me to cable Alice which I did, and I received a cable from Karl telling me to go and consult his lawyers. I went to see them and they insisted upon buying the stone back from the man rather than to have any trouble and publicity for me. I have Karl's letter to me which I will show you if you wish, Jack," I said to him.

How To Make Homes Cozy

PICTURES IN GROUPS

Pictures on walls should be in much parts of the various groups—the room as the pieces of furniture. They should be hung, therefore, in relation to the nearest group, as well as one another.

Adventures Of The Twins

MRS. GOOSE AND THE CROW TAKE A TRIP

Mother Goose and the white crow stopped on top of a tower of the castle of the king of Yum Yum Land and peeped over the edge to see what was going on.

There in the yard leaning up against a tree was Daddy Gander—magic dust pan—but the old gentleman was nowhere to be seen.

"The very idea," cried Mrs. Goose. "He could have brought the cook home and then left right away. He didn't need to go inside and make a visit. Nancy and Nick will think he's never coming back."

Sounds of "Yum Yum" were coming out of all the windows of the castle, and peeped out of all the houses in Yum Yum Land, because it was dinner time.

"I know what's happened," said the crow. "The king has invited Daddy Gander to stay to dinner. He'll be along soon if we give him time to finish. But you wait here and I'll fly down and look through the dining-room window."

Pretty soon he came back.

"Yes, that's what he said. 'The king is at one end of the table and Daddy Gander is at the other end. They're eating great stacks of bread and butter. I heard the king say that never never had he eaten such bread in his life.'"

"Oh, that's the bread that Mrs. John set to bake. The bread the cook found and baked into loaves and took home. If it wasn't for that bread Daddy Gander wouldn't be here."

"He'll soon be through eating," said the crow. "and then we can all start back to the Twins on the magic dust pan. It will only be a matter of a few minutes to get Jack's house on an air, and then back to Pippin Hill in a jiffy."

"Look! Look!" whispered Mrs. Goose suddenly pointing down to the yard of the palace where the magic dust pan was leaning against a tree. "It's a peddler. He's peddling it up."

The peddler was saying "Well, well, well! I don't know that I've ever had so many orders for the magic dust pan. But it's a good one so I'll put it in my sack and sell it for sixpence."

"I'll just say right here that the peddler and I started a lemonade stand but once a peddler, always a peddler, and he had taken to the bag."

"Give me my bloom. Quick, cried Mrs. Goose."

And without another word she jumped on and took right to the peddler and grabbed it out of his hand.

"Pans and dust pans go to."

Christmas Candy

CANDY CREAM

Four cups granulated sugar, 1 1/2 cups whipping and table cream combined, 1-1/2 (dessertspoon) cream of tartar, few grains salt, 1/2 cup blanched and shredded almonds, one third cup candied cherries cut into small pieces, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Stir cream of tartar into sugar. Put sugar and cream into a smooth saucepan. Bring slowly to the boiling point and cook stirring frequently until a soft ball is formed in cold water. Do not stir until the frup begins to boil. Remove from the fire and let stand until cold. Add salt and vanilla in a unit. Creamy and thick. Turn onto a marble slab or large platter, or knead in fruit and nuts. Knead until soft and put into a square pan lined with paraffin paper. Cover and let stand in a cold place for 24 hours. Cut in squares when ready to use.

Decorate By Means Of Good Old Tapestry

Both tapestries and pictures today are bought for decorative effects rather than for subject matter. Color size and general tone play a much greater part in the choice of these for a room today than the particular design figure or title. There has been noticed a falling off in the demand for pictures.

Tapestry panels fit naturally into the atmosphere of the modern home. In some instances, are in better taste than pictures. For example, tapestries always look well when placed above a console oravenport table or buffet. They lend a tone which few pictures can give.

G. O. P. IN STATE MAY KEEP BOB AND PARTY OFF TICKET
Reorganization of Republican Party May Follow Action by Senate
Madison—What effect the action of the Republican senatorial group in congress in virtually excluding Senator Robert M. LaFollette and three supporters from the party will have upon state politics in the future, is being discussed generally by state political leaders.
If the ouster plan is carried into the state Republican organization as leaders claim it probable, the entire LaFollette progressive group may be barred from entering the race for state offices two years from now under the Republican label, according to political interpreters here.
"We anticipate little difficulty as a result of the action," Attorney Ekern said. "Neither with the state or congressional office. It is hardly conceivable that congress will break the seniority rule regarding committees and unless it does this Wisconsin members of congress will retain their places on committees."
Reports received here from stalwart leaders are that if the ouster plan is carried out in congress, an effort will be made also to enforce a similar ruling in Wisconsin regarding state candidates. Such federal courts to enforce the ban on the progressive group from running under the Republican heading is said to be likely should other action fail. Any move to keep the progressives off of the Republican ticket in the state would probably require a reorganization plan for the Republican state central committee.

In division 2, consisting of schools with 700 to 1,500 students, four school papers tied for high honors. These were the Cardinal of South Division, Milwaukee, Talisman of Appleton, Lake breeze Weekly of Sheboygan and Blue-J of Janesville.

DEATHS
MRS. HELEN SCHOLL

HAD DIRTIEST STILL FOUND IN COUNTY
Edward Morasch Will Answer to Charges as Result of Raid by Scherck
"The still that would make even a drunkard swear off" is the description given of the sorry looking mess that was discovered by Walter Scherck, deputy sheriff, on the premises of Edward Morasch, who lives between Hortonville and New London. The still that was brought in from Saturday's raid is positively the dirtiest that has ever been confiscated in this county, according to court-house officials. One man who had been arraigned in municipal court Monday morning for drunkenness took one look at the apparatus and immediately lost his appetite. He said that if he knew the stuff he had been drinking came from a still like that, he'd never touch another drop.
Morasch will be taken into court this week to answer the charge against him.

Lamps Blithe Gifts
Alluring spots of color in a quiet room; blithe bits of cheer on a dreary day; beautiful Lamps are this and more. They're restful to weary eyes; they're useful to eager minds and busy hands for they shed a mellow glow on open books and unfinished sewing. What gifts, then, more welcome than lovely Lamps? The radiant cheer they cast throughout the year is beyond measure.

To Brighten Bridge Games
A polychrome bridge Lamp with graceful shade in some vivid color can cast a great deal of brightness over even the gayest of bridge tables. One's cards seem better and one's playing positively scintillates in the light of such a Lamp.

Lamps of Mellow Charm
Here are exquisite Lamps waiting to radiate charm in gracious homes this Christmas time. Some, made to adorn dignified tables, are large, with glazed pottery bases and fringed gogette shades; others are small, to glow in some erstwhile dark corner.

Prisms Gleam and Flash
In the manner of long ago these old-fashioned crystal Lamps dangle delicate prisms which brilliantly reflect every ray of light. Mantel Lamps which cast a soft diffused light and table Lamps of clear crystal are charming and extremely fashionable.

YOUNG ARISTOCRAT CONSIGNED TO BULL SALE BY WIECKERT

Animal Offered at Madison
Stables Has High Producing Ancestry

One of the most attractive offerings at the annual bull sale of Outagamie County Holstein Breeders' association at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Madison stables is the 5-month-old bull consigned by Walter Wieckert. The animal is one of 23 offered for sale and has an outstanding record of ancestry, based on milk production. This bull is from a 2-year-old heifer which has a record of 501 pounds of milk and 23.15 pounds of butter in seven days. The sister of this heifer boasts 49.04 pounds of butter and 578 pounds of milk in seven days at 3 years old. Their dam's record is 29.5 pounds of butter and 855.6 pounds of milk in seven days at six years old. These three cows, including the 2-year-old heifer, averaged nearly 90 pounds of milk a day.

Mr. Wieckert's bull is sired by a sire whose dam has a record of 1,302.22 pounds of butter in 365 days at five and a half years, 35.55 pounds of butter at five and a half years, and 25 pounds of butter at four years, in seven day tests. The sire is from a dam with a 29-pound 7-day butter record.

SAFETY TALK AT INDUSTRIAL FORUM

Nathan Hooyman, safety director for the Kimberly-Clark Co., will be the speaker at the second meeting of the Industrial Forum Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. He will talk on Life-Saving and Safety First and will bring a team of men from the Kimberly-Clark mill to demonstrate for the group. A discussion will follow. William McPherson is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. About 75 men are expected to attend. Thirty-five mills and firms of the Fox river valley have received invitations to join the forum, according to C. L. Poynton, industrial secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

ON THE SCREEN

THRILLS AND LAUGHS IN GRIP-
FITH FILM

There is a thrill, a chill and a good laugh at the New Bijou Theatre where D. W. Griffith's "One Exciting Night," is being shown today and Tuesday.

"One Exciting Night," a United Artists release, is a mystery drama, with just enough comedy to relieve a tense situation when the plot begins to thicken. While Mr. Griffith has departed from the heavy and spectacular, he has produced a picture that will live among the immortals of the silver screen. It is one of the best photoplays ever shown and a well-balanced cast of characters, which is headed by Miss Carol Dempster, who shares the honors with Henry Hull. The cast includes Porter Strong, Morgan Wallace, C. H. Crocker-King, Miss Margaret Dale, Frank Sheridan, Frank Wunderlee, Miss Grace Griswold, Miss Irma Harrison, Herbert Eutich, Percy Carr and Charles T. Mack.

The producer has left nothing undone to make the picture a real thriller. Spooky hands, secret panels, shadows and darting figures all have their play, while Porter Strong and Miss Florence Foster, servants, are humorous throughout. Just before the identity of the mysterious villain becomes known there is a storm scene, which is about the most realistic ever produced on the screen.

When the man of mystery is exposed all the patrons gasp, and so will you if you go to the New Bijou Theatre.

TEACHER'S HOUSE NOT A PARSONAGE

District Attorney Told That Tax
Can Be Collected on Mentor's Home

Under a ruling received by John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney from C. A. Brinkman, assistant state attorney general, an Appleton congregation will be required to pay taxes on a home leased by the church for a teacher who sometimes assists the minister in his pastoral work.

The congregation is paying rent on the house for the teacher, but in view of the fact that the teacher is a regularly ordained minister and besides his regular duties in the parish school he assists the pastor in his work.

The house in question cannot be regarded as a "parsonage," it was pointed out. "Parsonage," as used in the statutes, means a dwelling set apart for the use of the minister of the congregation only, and does not include a dwelling used by a teacher even though he may act as a substitute for the pastor in the latter's absence.

"It is conceivable that there might be a number of teachers in a given congregation who, in the absence of the pastor, would perform some of his duties," the deputy attorney general pointed out.

Were the house in question the property of the congregation itself, instead of being rented by the church, the building would then be tax-exempt, according to Mr. Lonsdorf.

COUNTY SCHOOL HEADS WILL ATTEND MEETINGS

Two state conferences of supervisory school officials are scheduled for next week at Madison and will be attended by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, and by A. L. Collier and Miss Nellie McDermott, supervising teachers. The state conference of supervising teachers will take place on Dec. 2 and 3, while the state conference of county superintendents will be held on the two days following.

Life phases. His "Way Down East," "Tolable David," "Enchanted Cottage," and others have all done honor to that ambition.

But these successive triumphs, we feel justified in saying, are eclipsed by Dick in his "Classmates" role of young Duncan Irving.

The picture is a distinct novelty in that a great portion of its scenes actually were filmed at the United States Military Academy, West Point, and transformed the entire cadet corps into movie actors for the purpose.

West Point has always held its doors rigidly closed to the pleas of producers of photodrama, albeit many have tried for entrance to its almost sacred confines.

Here, however, we not only have free access to all the closely guarded and traditional spots of the famous institution—"Flirtation Walk," "Kissing Walk," "Camp Illumination"—and others—but we see the arrow-like young future generals of Uncle Sam's army unbending with great glee before the camera. We are told that Dick and his company lived at the school three weeks and were personally assisted by the Academy authorities in accurately filming the scenes there for "Classmates." Such, indeed, is a novelty for West Point.

CHAMBERLIN LOST WHILE DEER HUNTING

G. L. Chamberlin, 776 Pacific street, figures he had something to be really thankful for on Thanksgiving day. He is thankful that he was able to eat a Thanksgiving dinner after a harrowing evening in the north woods where he was lost while hunting deer last week.

Chamberlin lost his way while in the woods and wandered into a swamp about dusk. When he realized he was lost it was so dark he could not see his compass and he had no way of determining directions. To add to his discomfiture a pack of wolves started howling nearby. Chamberlin shot his gun to tell his friends he was lost and after a little while he had used all his ammunition. About 9 o'clock he was convinced he was hopelessly lost for the night and finding a place to sleep, managed to start a fire. The blaze attracted rescuers and in a short time he was located and taken back to camp.

ASK 4 COUNTIES TO FIGHT HIGH WATER

Riparians Association Wants to Recover $5,000,000 in Damages

Fond du Lac — County boards of four counties, Fond du Lac, Winnebago, Calumet and Outagamie, will be asked to join the Association for the Relief of High Water in its fight for the recovery of approximately $5,000,000 in damages to land and also for the establishment of a definite level for Lake Winnebago at the time navigation is opened in the spring.

This action followed a special meeting of the board of directors of the association at the city hall Monday. The bylaws of the organization will be amended so as automatically to make the chairman of the boards of the counties bordering on Lake Winnebago directors. The amendment, suggested by Mayor R. D. Hentze, will be presented at the annual meeting of the organization in December or January.

Mayor Hentze, F. J. Wolfe and Mit Michels, Fond du Lac, were named to select a farmer to go to Washington to appear before the department of the interior, the war department and the attorney general. The representative farmer will appear with Mayor Hentze, A. H. Tripp, George Williams and George Randall.

Charges that the government is storing the water in Lake Winnebago for water power interests at the expense of farmers were made at the meeting. It was declared that the activities of the government are shrouded in mystery.

SNIDER APPOINTED TO LEGISLATIVE BOARD

Myron Green, Kansas City, Mo., president of the National Restaurant association, has advised Claude H. Snider, restaurant owner here, of his appointment on the national legislative committee of this association. Mr. Snider will associate with himself such restaurant men as may be most interested in restaurant legislation.

The plans of the National restaurant association contemplate the submission to the legislatures of the several states identical bills intended to increase the care and sanitary conditions surrounding the serving of food under the same regulations.
